World Environment Day – June 5th

World Environment Day is held every year on June 5th. It is run by the United Nations, with the aim of raising awareness of specific environmental issues. It was first held in 1974, and now 143 countries take part. The range of issues on which the day has focussed in past years includes plastic pollution, illegal trade in wildlife, global warming and food waste. This year's theme is "Air Pollution", and the host country will be China. Governments, industry, communities and individuals will be urged to come together to explore renewable energy and green technologies, and improve air quality in cities and regions across the world.

Air pollution has been linked to lung disease, cardiovascular disease, stroke and dementia, and asthma in children. So, at an individual level, all of us might wonder what we can do to help. Some things are really simple, such as turning off lights when not needed, using public transport, driving when necessary in the most energy efficient way, drying clothes on a clothes line, avoiding plastic bags, quitting smoking, reusing and recycling as much as possible. It's not too late to make a resolution to change a few simple things in our daily lives, to ensure we are making a small contribution to a better world.

Deanery Pilgrimage

The Deanery is planning another two-day pilgrimage which will complete the first circumnavigation of the deanery churches. The route is being finalised but we are planning Greenhead to Warden over the two days, Friday 14 and Saturday 15 June culminating with a service at the church in Warden. The walk will call at each church where there will be linked exhibitions of a Christian Aid project. If you would like

The Vicar's Letter

One of the things which marks out the history of Christian mission is that the first act of the Christian missionary has very often to be to translate the words of the bible into the language of the community which they are encountering. This is not a universal law. We know this locally, with the Reformation martyr Bishop Nicholas Ridley – born at Willimoteswick - being put to death, in part, by those who opposed the desire in the Reformation for the bible to be read and understood in our native language.

This instinct to translate the Christian faith literally and metaphorically into the local language finds its origins in the story of Pentecost which we mark on Sunday 9 June. This is one of the chief feasts of the Christian year and is often called the 'birthday of the Church'. It marks the day, fifty days after Easter, when the Apostles received the gift of the Holy Spirit. The Spirit comes to them in a rushing wind, with flames of fire appearing on their heads, and suddenly all the Apostles started to speak in different languages. So much so that the crowds gathered in Jerusalem thought they were drunk on new wine.

This dramatic story reminds us that the task of the Church is not to stand still, but to find new ways of communicating the Christian faith to those who we meet in the world around us. I know this well as I promised to do this when I became your Vicar when, in a special promise call the 'Declaration of Assent' I promised to 'proclaim afresh to each generation' the Christian faith.

This promise has been used to name new ways of communicating the Christian faith in the Church, called fresh-expressions of Church. We have two of these fresh-expressions in the Parishes by the Wall: Messy Church, which meets monthly, introduces children and families to stories of faith with crafts, storytelling, and shared meal; and once a month we pitch God's Tent, finding ways of exploring the stories of our faith in the landscape we live in. Neither of these is there to undermine our traditional or inherited ways of doing Church. Rather each of them is, like in the story of Pentecost, a different language through which we can continue to communicate the timeless truth God reveals to us in Jesus.

Your Vicar, Benjamin

An Event-full Month!

June starts off with the Epsom Derby on 1 June, followed by the anniversary of the Coronation on 2 June. Pentecost is celebrated on 9 June and the following Friday, Whit Friday, used to herald the day of Wakes Walks, particularly in North West England. These were often accompanied by brass band contests. Towns in the North West also observed Wakes Week Holidays, a practice that developed in the 19th century during the Industrial Revolution. This custom has almost disappeared in recent times, due to the decline in manufacturing industries and standardisation of school holidays.

The Trooping of the Colour takes place on 8 June, to mark the Queen's Official Birthday. June 10 is the birthday of Prince Philip, when he will be 98, and Falkland Islands Liberation Day is on 14 June. Fathers' Day is on 16 June, Waterloo Day is 18 June, and Armed Forces Day is 22 June, when there is usually a free family fun day in Hexham to show support for those who make up the Armed Forces community. And if you haven't found enough to celebrate on all these special days, then Midsummer Day is on Monday 24 June, which is also the date of the feast of St John the Baptist. Don't confuse Midsummer Day with the summer solstice which will have already happened on Friday 21 June.
